2. The Strategies are used by Erin Gruwell to solve the students problem found in Freedom Writers Movie

The strategy who used Erin to solve the students problemis Gaining attention. There are similarities between Gaining attention strategy and the data who has collected by the researcher. And it proof that Erin used Gaining attention to teach and solve the students problem in Freedom Writers movie. This is evidenced from the similarities that exist between the gaining attention steps and the data of analysis above :

- 1) announce to participants what your topic will be. It means that in gaining attention strategy the teacher must tell the topic to the students before start a lesson.

2) Gaining attention : Show a provocative picture, cartoon, chart, or quotation that relates to your presentation

- In the movie, there is a scene where Erin used quotation. At that time Erin turned on the music to make the students enjoy and try to get attention for the students. After that Erin shared the lyric from one of the singers. Erin wanted the students to read the lyric while listening to the music. Erin told the students that the lyric is cool and there is good meaning/quote in it. Erin tried to make the students have interest in reading.

Besides that, Erin also bought books for the students using her own money. Erin wanted to make her students have interest in reading and get a high score in reading.

In the next day, Erin wrote on the board about poetry. After that Erin asked Gloria to read it aloud. Of course this was to make the students want to read.

- In the movie, there is a scene that shows Erin using a picture when she teaches the students in the class. Erin asked them to close their books and change the topic. Figure 1.15 Line game

4) Tell as story, real or flectional, that drammatically introduce your topic

- Erin used telling story to get interest from the students. there is scane where Erin ask the students to write anything about them. They can write about their happiness or their sadness. And if they want Erin read the story who writen by them, they can put the books into the locker who already prepared by Erin before. From this their relation change. The students believe Erin as a teacher who understand their life. Erin ask the students to write their story to help they all solve their problem. So it can makes the students have interest in study. The reason why it can makes the students have interest in study is because if Erin ask them to write every day it makes the students like write. Before, the students don't like write but after Erin give a books to write, they all like write. From that strategy, The students have interest in writing. The students likes writing because of Erin strategy.
