CHAPTER IV

CONCLUSSION AND SUGGESTION

This chapter is divided into two parts. Namely conclusion and suggestion. The conclusion deals with the result of the research about language variations in movie of Bilal "Bilal: A New Breed of Hero". The suggestion is given to the students and next researchers and readers.

A. Conclusion

1. The language variations represented in the movie entitled "Bilal: A New Breed of Hero.

After answering the research focuses by collecting and analysing the data, the researcher can conclude that there are 3 data which are included into jargon, 8 data found in argot, 4 data included into register, 4 data into slang, and 4 data which are included into idiom. Those are in The theory of language variety proposed by Martin Joos, while the theory for speech events is the theory proposed by Holmes.

The supporting factor which is explained above is the speech component or speech event. Holmes also said that in every situation, the language which is chosen is indirectly influenced by one or more components of speech, like the participant or speaker (who is speaking and to whom the speaker is speaking), the setting of events or the place where the speaker is speaking. The speaker talking gets a place (where they speak), and functions (why the speaker and interlocutor talk about it) this speech component is always found in every conversation, both in everyday conversation and in film dialogue.

2. The analysis of language variations in the movie Bilal: A New Breed of Hero.

   In sociolinguistics, language variety is a special form of a language or language group. It is a general term for any distinctive form of language or linguistic expression. This may include languages, dialects, registers, styles or other forms of language, as well as standard variations. The use of the word "diversity" to refer to different forms avoids the use of language terms that many people associate only with standard languages, and dialect terms that are often associated with non-standard varieties are considered less prestigious.

   The speaker and the situation is not the only supporting factors in language variations, but there are many other factors such as the purpose and topic in conversation. The supporting factor which is explained above is the speech component or speech event. Holmes also said that in every situation, the language which is chosen is indirectly influenced by one or more components of speech, like the participant or speaker (who is speaking and to whom the speaker is speaking), the setting of events or the place where the speaker is speaking. The speaker talking gets a place (where they speak), and functions (why the speaker and interlocutor talk about it) this speech component is always found in every conversation, both in everyday conversation and in film dialogue.

   B. Suggestion

2. Readers

   It is expected that the readers can watch the movie and get studying of language variations. Thus, they do not only enjoy the aesthetics of the movie, but also,they can get the language values of the movie.
